SAGEBRUSH OCCURRENCES

Interesting Happenings in the State Gleaned From Exchanges.

At Saturday's meeting of the Elko County Cattle Association the following officers were elected: George Russell, president; M. Glaser, vice president; A. W. Henson, secretary; Frank Fernald, treasurer.

The County Commissioners of Esmeralda county at their last meeting ordered that J. G. Booker be empowered to make a survey to determine the county line between Nye and Esmeralda, and settle the controversy as to whether the Tonopah mines are in this county or Nye.

Ex-Sheriff J. S. Scott of White Pine county committed suicide at Ely by blowing out his brains with a revolver.

A well known young woman of Gold Hill attempted to commit suicide last Sunday night by taking carbolic acid. Details are meagre but it is thought that despondency inspired the attempt which fortunately proved abortive.

Water is five cents per gallon and wood twenty dollars per cord at Tonopah.

Make a Pet of the Rat.
"As a matter of fact," says a courageous writer in the Boston Transcript, "the common rat is a vastly more intelligent creature than the squirrel or the average cat. I am more than half convinced that the resources of the rat as a household pet would if fairly tested prove very great. The rat is undoubtedly capable of a higher and more intimate form of domestication than that which he now commonly assigns to himself. He is at present a resident of our houses on unwelcome terms, and he makes himself, quite naturally, as much an enemy of the household as possible."
"Let the rat be welcomed and made a friend of the family, as has been done in a few cases, and he becomes a different sort of fellow altogether. No longer forced to steal his food, he becomes a playmate and a companion. The sleek and well groomed gray rat is, barring the ordinary baldness of his tail, quite as pretty and graceful a creature as the squirrel, and there is no reason why we should not become so much accustomed to the appearance of his tail that in time we should regard it as quite ornamental."

A Moroccan Superstition.
In a paper to the Anthropological Institute Dr. Westermarck showed from investigations in Morocco that the Arab ginn, or goun, is regarded as a special race of beings created before Adam, of no fixed form and assuming like Proteus who was perhaps a per se of the same extraction, almost any shape they please. Bad gins at night are kept away by salt or steel and verses of the Koran. The author supposes that the belief in gins has come down from a saltless and homeless age but was absorbed and developed at a later time under the influence of Islam.

To Punish Johnny.
France's Parliament, the historian, had a Morale Idea of Justice. A friend met him one day walking along the street looking a stout boy with either hand "What in the world are you doing, Parkman?" asked his friend. "I found that Johnny here had eaten all of the apple instead of dividing with his little brother. I am going to buy another for the younger boy and make Johnny watch him while he eats it."

FRIDAY, APRIL 12, 1901.
TAXATION ON RAILROAD PROPERTY.

Taxation of railroad property has become a theme for discussion by our people. There are those who differ materially upon a subject that has been more or less agitated by those who were of the opinion that the Southern Pacific was not contributing its share to the support of the State. There is no question in the mind of the writer about the correctness of the view taken by most of our citizens respecting taxation upon railroad property interests in the State preceding the present time, or at least for many years last past. The Journal has taken the position that the company property was not taxed upon a just valuation when compared with values placed upon the property of private citizens. The Journal continues to entertain the opinion it has expressed respecting values for taxation purposes upon railroad property in the past. While it continues to entertain its former opinion, made up as it believed, from facts that justified its conclusion, it is of the opinion that an injustice has been done to the company through the wholesale advance made by the last assessment as directed at twenty thousand dollars per mile. It is the opinion of the writer that the sum mentioned is over-taxation, upon the theory that twenty thousand dollars is the value placed on the road property by the State of California. The earnings of the road in Nevada on overland business is perhaps equal to its earnings in that class of business in California, but, when there is taken into relation for the purpose of arriving at values the local business of the road in the two States, the difference is such that values are materially effected. The local business of the road in the State of California is so much more than it is in Nevada that its earnings in the former in local business must be many times more than it is in that class of business in the latter. When local business in the State mentioned is taken into account, as it should be, when arriving at a just valuation, which is ascertained from earnings, there is a large margin against a like valuation in Nevada of the company's property to that made for taxation in the State of California. There are few men in Nevada who have had more cause of a personal nature to feel aggrieved at the company than the writer, but personal matters should not influence when a question of right is involved. A citizen who cannot rise above personal feeling when the rights of a corporation doing business in the State, or rights of the commonwealth, or the rights of its individual citizens are involved is unworthy of the respect of his fellow citizens. The Journal is informed that there has been a modification made in the value and that seventeen thousand dollars is the sum per mile now fixed for taxation, which is more near what it should be than twenty thousand per mile. Upon a review of the facts before the writer he is of the opinion that fifteen thousand per mile would be more near a just valuation of the entire mileage within the State than seventeen thousand dollars per mile. It is admitted that the people of the State have heard much more about favors granted by the company to its citizens than they have heard about their rights, but that fact is not an argument to favor injustice or its appearance. In a moral sense people are justified in using what ever may become necessary to be used when making a defense, but they are not justified in using retaliation. There is not anything to be gained by such a course in private or in public affairs. Louis XIV of France said: "That which policy counsels, justice authorizes." Napoleon quoted the saying and acted upon it when he invaded Spain. We are not at the close of the Dark Ages as was Louis XIV, or are we ruled by a dictator at the close of a revolution. We live at the beginning of the twentieth century, farther removed by justice and free institutions from the men named and their times than we are removed by time. Which excludes from our civilation the principle included in the saying of Louis XIV.

The policy of the people of Nevada should be a policy of justice to the Southern Pacific and to all interests in the State. Should there be error from any cause that comes, they should try to have the error appear against their collective or State interest and not against a corporate or real person doing business in the State.
There has been continued war between the railroad company and the people, arising chiefly from conditions imposed upon the people under a management other than the management there is now. These oppressive conditions have been largely removed by those who have succeeded to the direction of the company's business, upon the theory that the people of the State are just and will do justice. Let it not be said that the good faith of our people while under trial has not been equal to expectation. It is well known to the people that they have been under an arbitrary and despotic will that succeeded in creating silence which it could not break at a given time, or in a particular direction, but the people are capable of breaking their silence when they choose to do so and in a way they may desire to break it, but above all things connected with the State let their silence be broken in the work of justice and moderation and with a desire to be upon amicable relations with the new management which has given them to understand that it does not look upon them as outcasts to be treated as enemies.

LAUGHED AT BROKEN RIBS.

Ed Leeper is a plucky lad. Tuesday he biked to Carson and, descending the Lakeview hill, got a bad fall and lay in the road unconscious for half an hour. He made his painful way to his destination and discovered when he arrived there that a couple of ribs were caved in and that he was badly bruised.
Yesterday morning he felt pretty well and, despite strict orders from his physician, he rode his wheel back to Reno. Ed is a chip off the old block.

It is alleged that linotype stuff won't "pi." But the originator of that assertion never handled very much of the stuff. This assertion is apropos to stating that the writup of the "Evil Eye" rendition was cut short for just such a reason.

Accidental Omission.
In yesterday's report of the tribute of respect to the memory of Mrs. Dr. Patterson prepared by the physicians of Reno, the name of Dr. P. T. Phillips was accidentally omitted. Dr. Phillips was one of the signers, in fact he drew up the resolutions.

John L. Sullivan's Brawl.
Some eminent tragedians were once quizzing John L. Sullivan, then in his heyday. Said one of them:
"Say, John, why don't you try the legitimate? Look at Muldoon. He has played the wrestler until he is as well known in connection with Shakespeare as he is on the mat."
John looked thoughtful for a moment and then growled:
"Say, do you think I could do it?"
"Why, sure. Play 'The Gladiator.' Just the piece for you."
Once again John thought awhile and then said:
"Say, that's a good idea. I think I've got a good scheme to work with it too."
"What is it, John?"
"Why, I'd have a real solid iron arena. I'd come into the arena and holler, 'Bring out your wild ox!' See? Then I'd have 'em bring in a live bull. I'd wrestle round the ring with it until I got a good hold on its horns, and then I'd slowly twist it down and break its neck. Then I'd put my foot on its neck and say, 'Behold the invincible, yours truly, John L. Sullivan, champion of the world!' I'd kill a real live bull for 'em every night. How do you think that'd hit 'em?"
"Great! But great Scott, John! Can you kill a bull like that?"
"Huh! Can I? Come out to the slaughter house and see me do it!"—Kansas City Independent.

TEACHERS IN STATE INSTITUTE ASSEMBLED.

A Chatty Report of the Proceedings of the Second Day at the Capital City.

(Special Correspondence.)

Thursday morning brings warmer weather and evidently the warmth of the reception the hospitable people of Carson have given the visitors has reached the weather god and thawed his frosty heart.

The morning exercise was opened with a piano solo, "The Maiden's Prayer," by Miss Alexine Lepore of Carson.

It was followed by the song, "Red, White and Blue," and the hall resounded until the red, white and blue draperies waved back their answers, showing by motion their joy at the strength of lungs and patriotism of the assembled pedagogues.

It was followed by a class exercise in literature under the direction of Miss Childs of Carson. The work was on Lady of the Lake. Each pupil read a selection, then reproduced it in his own words. A command of language, as well as ability to think on one's feet is thus gained.

The note books containing the written composition on the same subjects are marvels of beauty in penmanship, and rhetoric. A keen eye could have seen Reno's teacher of that subject slyly "taking items" from the same. (Let her class beware of the future!)

The reproduction work was followed by a discussion of figures of speech and other points of rhetoric.

Miss Northrop, in her paper on geography said she approved of teaching geography to make the child understand the world and its beauties. Too many pupils get the impression that the world was but a gaily colored patchwork hung on the walls. Teach, she said, not merely "My Country Tis of Thee," but also,

"I love my country's pine clad hills,
Her thousand gushing rills,
Her sunshine and her storm,
Her rough and rugged rocks.
Their hoary heads high in the air that rear
In wild fantastic forms,"

with the why of the "pine clad hills," cause and use of rills, the wherefore of storms and of sunshine, and only a little about these bare rocks and mountains, but of the verdure which covers them and which alone attracts the young mind.

Mr. Avery of Virginia read his paper, "How to Judge of a Pupil's Readiness for Promotions." He said cards should be abolished. First, because a good card falsely encourages a pupil; second, because a poor card gives rise to dissatisfaction on the part of a pupil, and leads him to seek comfort in the thought of a teacher's partiality.

In examinations testing for readiness of promotion strict rigidity should be observed. He seemed to think all teachers needed watching, and careful watching too, lest unprepared pupils pass their grades.

The story "Painted" written by Mrs. Doten and read by Miss Northrop was very pretty. It showed an excellent ability of the author. The music in the interim, given by Miss Shadler, was touchingly rendered and most admirably adapted to the selection.

The first exercise was: "Why Some Teachers Fail," given by Prof. Cumberly. So many people, he said, entered the profession before being sufficiently matured to be able to analyze themselves to know whether fitted for the life of a teacher.

He called those who had failed "miss fits," a second class of miss fits is of those who take up the work late in life as a means of sustenance. It can be said of both classes they take up the work before they are prepared.

We can learn from Germany a lesson regarding preparation. A man there must take his doctor's degree, study a year to pass the State examination, observe a year in a good school, serve a year in training, and then his name can be placed on the lists as a possible candidate for a teacher. What teachers need most is broadmindedness and possession of liberal culture. Rest and recreation of some kind each day helps make the strongest teacher. The addition of something new each year to the teacher's accomplishments is always essential. As with a doctor or lawyer so with a teacher—he must be a life-long student.

A teacher must be one of enthusiasm to combat with the troubles which must of necessity arise. A teacher must have high ideals, else how can he raise his pupils to a nobler and better life.

Prof. Howe, with his geometry class, came before the institute. The progress of the work was greeted with frequent applause as one after another pupil made a hit in the work. Each pupil stood against the shot and shell of questions with unflinching courage and came off victors. Not one fell by the wayside, rather each one covered himself with glory.

The work showed remarkable ability on the part of instructed and instructors. The Carson schools have a way of laying a solid foundation for the pupils knowing soundly what they attempt to learn.

Mr. Doten's lecture was delivered with his usual ease and his innumerable pleasantries. Definite information was given, and direct help and instruction were obtained. Mr. Doten is so well informed on the subject and so deeply in love with his work that he never fails to interest his hearers. He exhibited beautiful specimens prepared by himself of butterflies, wasps and even the tarantula and hawk. He had many water specimens, too.

MR. TALBOT INTERVIEWED

The Elko County Jurist Talks About Coal and Oil Prospects.

Judge Talbot of Elko, who had been spending a few days in this portion of the State, departed for his home last evening. He expects to sit at the trial of several cases for Judge Culler, that will come up during the last of the month.

The Judge reports considerable excitement in Elko county over the coal and oil indications. Two good coal veins have been discovered that promise to become good properties with proper development work.

A company is also being formed for the purpose of sinking two thousand feet, is necessary, with the hope of finding a good oil flow. The Journal hopes that the enterprising people of that section may secure all they hope for in that direction.

Judge Talbot will probably be called upon in the near future to decide a very important question effecting the development of this State in a material manner. He may be called upon to decide an injunction suit in which the principles will be the Southern Pacific company and the Clark syndicate, who are fighting for a right of way.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE?

That is the Question That the Voters of Reno Must Soon Decide.

Before this pleasant month of April, which already is nearly half spent, draws to a close the momentous question of incorporating the city of Reno will have been decided at the polls. If in the affirmative, then there will have been a council chosen to govern municipal affairs.

The apathy on the part of the citizens of Reno on this important question is hard to understand. There are quiet forces at work and, if incorporation carries, the candidates of these forces will elect themselves with ease. This matter of incorporation should be thought about and discussed. If it is good, let us have it by means, but if incorporation is to be all detriment to the town, defeat the project.

Anyway the citizens and taxpayers should get to work for the weal of our town.

Shorty, the Incurable.

Shorty, the bootblack, has been out of jail several days longer than usual, at least he had been up to noon yesterday. Now he is corresponding with his usual environment. This pestiferous nuisance, was annoying some ladies in the waiting room of the station, who were members of a funeral party. Officer Leeper saw the fellow at his pranks and ejected him from the building with the toe of his boot. The officer threatens to sue Shorty for assault and battery because of injuries he sustained to his foot. The charge against the bootblack is vagrancy.

MINING IN EARNEST.

Extensive Development Work is Being Done at Steam- boat Springs.

Mining operations are now being conducted at Steamboat on a large scale. A steam pump has been received by the Great Western Company. It will be put in operation today and the work of unwatering the main shaft begun.

This will be used as a drainage shaft. It is expected that it will pump the water from the famous springs and permit a tunnel to be run in that seething chaldron.

Three other shafts are being sunk by the Great Western Company, and one of a promising character taken from one of them. The main lead has not yet been struck, but another month may see great developments.

President Hopkins showed a Journal taken from four hundred and fifty grains of drillings from the main lead. The button indicates values up in the thousands. The other prospectors in the district are satisfied at the outlook. Good assays are being obtained from several claims.

MR. FALKENBURG ON FRATERNITY.

He Delivers a Fine Address to a Large and Appreciative Audience.

Last evening Reno witnessed one of the greatest fraternal events in its history. A number of the local fraternal orders attended en masse a lecture delivered in the opera house by Head Consul Falkenburg of the Woodmen of the World. The house was crowded.

Mr. Falkenburg's subject was "Fraternity." The speaker was the founder of this order and holds the first beneficiary certificate issued by it. The substance of his remarks was about as follows:

"During the ten years that Woodcraft has been in existence it has grown to a membership of 203,000, of which $1,500 are in this jurisdiction, which comprises California, Nevada, Oregon, Washington, Colorado, Wyoming.

"In the three jurisdictions death claims amounting to $8,800,000 have been paid.

"We believe that this jurisdiction is the healthiest portion of the Woodmen, which accounts for the low assessments levied. By eliminating the hazardous vocations and making critical medical examinations, the death rate has been kept down to 6.4, forty per cent lower than in the east.

"I am working to uplift our order, to make the fraternal side of it of such value that the insurance portion becomes but a side issue.

"Woodcraft is a glorious order. It not only protects the families of deceased members but aids the unfortunate before death. Not only was $50,000 paid out in death benefits as a result of the Galveston flood, but $15,000 was sent to aid the Woodmen who sustained financial losses during the great catastrophe. You don't have to die to win in the Woodmen of the World.

"Woodcraft is my child, but much as I love the order, I would rather see it perish than have it descend from its high pedestal of fraternity and brotherly love."

At the conclusion of the address there was a brief executive session of Washoe Camp, after which Mr. and Mrs. Falkenburg were banqueted at the Arcade hotel.

Taken Under Advisement.

ABOUT MINE AND MINER
Notes Gathered From Exchanges

Take Your Chances.
The Buddhists believe that happiness, Nirvana, consists in self-effacement, oblivion. The young Buddhas began life by sitting unsupported in the air just after birth. Their mothers attained Nirvana immediately, and they, the Buddhas, reached Nirvana in various queer ways.

One earnest Buddha, one of the earliest of the long line, earned the "Nibbana" as follows:
A hawk was about to devour a small bird. Said the Buddha to the bird of prey:
"I beseech thee, leave this little creature in peace. I will give thee its weight from my own flesh."
Down from heaven came a pair of scales, and the transaction was accomplished. The small bird sat on one side of the scales, and the Buddha began putting slices of his body into the other side, while the bird of prey looked on with an evil eye. As the Buddha carried himself up the little bird seemed to get heavier and heavier. The bird of prey said the scales did not move with the last particle of the saint's body was put in the scales.

The Buddhists' legends do not tell how the saint managed to carve up his last few fragments, but that is not important. Which do you think was happier, the Buddha who entered into Nirvana as the little bird flew away or the bird of prey that made a hearty meal of the saint's flesh and called off delighted with his bargain?—New York Journal.

Cobwebs and Cuts.
An old time remedy to stop blood flowing from a cut is to put cobwebs over it, but from recent discovery it appears a dangerous thing to do. Some time ago a woman fell and cut her head, and when her friends hurried to her assistance they found the blood flowing from a deep gash. Cobwebs were applied, and the bleeding quickly stopped, but in a few days the woman was taken with lockjaw.

A scientist declared there were lockjaw germs in cobwebs, and that was the way the woman contracted the disease. He has made quite a study of the subject and says that in a handful of cobwebs he found 61 different disease germs. That being true, it is very easy to see how one could get not only lockjaw, but many other dreadful diseases, as the cobweb is placed right on an open wound and the germs can enter the blood. Cobwebs form in dark, dirty places, and it is not to be wondered that they gather germs.—Exchange.

The Log of a Ship.
A ship's log is an instrument for measuring the rate at which the vessel is going and consists of three parts—viz, the log chip, the log line and the log glass. The principle is simply this: A light substance thrown from the vessel ceases to partake of the motion of the vessel as soon as it strikes the water and will be left behind on the surface after a certain interval. If the distance of the ship from this stationary object be measured, the approximate rate of sailing will be given.

The log chip is the float, the log line is the measure of the distance, and the log glass defines the interval of time.

In the old days the heaving of the log required skill and watchfulness, but since the patent log has come into use no skill is required in finding the speed of a vessel. It is regulated by clock work, and the number of knots the vessel sails per hour is recorded on the dial without any hand touching it.
